

ABSTRACT

An electrode head including at least one bio-compatible electrode. The electrode head includes at least one printed circuit board (PCB) having a face area and a thickness and at least one bio-compatible electrode extending from the thickness of the at least one printed circuit board.